MUST BETTER MEN TO REBUILD WORLD

EACH MUST IMPROVE SEPARATELY, SAYS BISHOP QUAYLE

SPEAKS TO GOOD CROWD

He Discourages Socialism and Too Much Internationalism—Declares We Are Citizens of Globe

"The spiritual regeneration of the world must be made through the improvement of individuals, one at a time. Mass improvement, such as socialism contemplates, is not God's plan."

"The identity of the nations must remain unimpaired. Any internationalism that seeks to destroy the natural and valuable differences between nations is undesirable."

"The world cannot be built without God's help."

The foregoing were the chief points brought out last night by Bishop W. A. Quayle in his address on "The Rebuilding of the World," delivered at the First Methodist Episcopal church. A good crowd, filling most of the lower floor, was in attendance, despite the bad weather, and a considerable sum was added to the fund for the support of the aged ministers of the church, for whose benefit the lecture was given.

Was a Popular Lecture.

The address was a popular lecture, rather than a sermon. Bishop Quayle knows how to appeal to the mass of people through homely illustrations and humorous points, and the response in applause and laughter was frequent. Occasionally, however, the distinctly religious flavor crept in, and the loud "Amen!" of the audience gave approval to some telling point.

In his opening remarks, after a hymn, a prayer and an introduction, the bishop dwelt upon the essential littleness of our points of view. "A game of marbles will appeal to more persons than will a lecture," he said. "You can't expect a perfect peace in this world; it is more likely to be perfect pieces."

We are always talking about the "world" now, according to the speaker. We find ourselves citizens of the world since the war. The soldier who died in France died for the world. We have learned to know "Somewhere in France" better than "Anywhere in Missouri."

The awakening came through pain. "We don't know where our toes are until they are stepped on," said the bishop. "Pain teaches mankind to know itself."

Must All Work Together.

"And now that we have become citizen sof the world, we must con-citizens of the world, we must con-bankrupt the world in sections; you

Miss [illegible]rts of St. Joseph Is Chosen [illegible]ent Now 32S—Footba[illegible]s Are Bright

State Historical Society COLUMBIA

Miss Jessie [illegible] of St. Joseph was elected tod[illegible] local school board to take the [illegible]at of history at the high s[illegible] which Miss Dorothy Pierce has been holding temporarily.

Miss Roberts comes highly recommended. She is a graduate of Leland-Stanford University of California, one of the greatest educational institutions of the west.

With the acquisition of Miss Roberts the high school faculty is now complete and ready to take care of the largest enrollment in the history of the school. Three hundred and twenty-eight students are now registered, an increase of ten over last week.

Superintendent J. M. McDonald announced today that he had turned over a list of Maryville absentees to Ed Wallace, attendance officer. More than 200 are on the list, but Professor McDonald states that probably two-thirds of the children listed in the report have left town since the enumeration was made last May. He bases his opinion in this matter on the fact that a large number have entered school this year who are not included in the enumeration list of last May.

Coach L. E. Zeigler stated today that the high school football team was in mid-season form and "rarin' to go." Several scrimmages have been held with the college players and the high school boys have held their own ,despite the fact that the heavier fellows on the green and white team severely bruised up the red and white stockinged boys.

No games have been definitely scheduled yet, but Coach Zeigler states that games are practically assured with Savannah, Pattonsburg, Chillicothe and possibly Trenton.

HOPKINS IS PLANNING VICTORY BARBECUE FOR OCTOBER 3-4

Entertainment Will be on Business Streets—Committees Named and Returned Soldiers Invited

Hopkins is to have a victory barbecue on Friday and Saturday, October 3 and 4. It is planned to have the entertainment on the business streets. The barbecue is in honor of the returned soldiers, and an invitation will be extended to the boys from Nodaway and adjoining counties.

A committee of four was appointed by Chairman Jacob Haaf to make arrangements, this committee being empowered to name sub-committees to assist them.

The general committee is composed of Ed Fike, Oscar Mutti, Perry Stewart and George Ulmer, Jr.

The following sub-committees have been named:

Finance Committee—Frank DeWitt, Harry Dalby, Mel Sheley, Wm. Alexander, Elmer Hutcherson and Robert Houston.

Entertainment Committee — Roy Sturgeon, Walter Pistole and Robert Wolfers.

Lunch Committee—Jacob Haaf, Fred Gray and Sam Robbins.

O. L. Mutti is secretary and treasurer and George Ulmer, Jr., will be marshal of the day.

Will You Lend Financial Aid?

When a tire blows out or is punctured a tire shop looks mighty good. Well, if you or any of your family are in physical distress, a hospital looks better. Will you lend financial aid by contributing to the fund to enlarge and imporve the one at Maryville? Two hundred and twelve people from this township have already received direct benefits from this hospital. It is for the entire county and ALL should be interested in its welfare.—Hopkins Journal.

PUTS UP D. E. BIRD AS NEXT GOVERNOR

CLUB FORMED BY YOUNG DEMOCRATS OF GREEN TOWNSHIP.

A FORMER QUITMAN BOY

He Is Now a Circuit Judge in Kansas City—Attended Seminary in Maryville and Missouri University.

The young Democrats of Green township, meeting at Quitman, have formed a club, which they intend to make county and state wide, for Judge Daniel E. Bird for governor at the next election.

Judge Bird is now a circuit judge in Kansas City. This position he has held for the past seven years.

Judge Bird was born on a farm 4½ miles southwest of Quitman, and when his father, the late John L. Bird, moved to the town of Quitman, the young Daniel E. Bird earned his first money as a bootblack. He was ambitious and energetic and always stood at the head of his classes in the public school. After finishing the public school course at Quitman, he attended the Maryville Seminary and the Stanberry normal school. He never spent a dollar in school after he was ten years old that he did not earn himself.

Had to Support the Family.

John L. Bird, his father, lost his property and his health ,and all the time young Daniel was working his way through school he was also helping to support his parents and his younger brothers and sisters.

The judge taught in the district schools of his home county for four years, and his services were sought after by adjoining counties. All the time he was teaching and clerking in stores in Quitman he was reading law. He afterward studied law in the University of Missouri and then received his degree of Bachelor of Laws from the Kansas City School of Law. He began the practice of law in Kansas City and soon rose to be recognized as one of the leading lawyers of the Jackson county bar.

Named Circuit Judge in 1913.

In 1913, when Governor Major sought some lawyer to fill a place as one of the judges of Kansas City, he was petitioned to appoint Daniel E. Bird by the entire bar of Kansas City, regardless of politics. Judge Bird was appointed for the short term, became a candidate to succeed himself and was elected by a large majority. He has always taken a great interest in politics and always works for and supports the Democratic party.

The members of the "Bird for Governor" club say they wil present the name of Judge Daniel E. Bird as the strongest man at the next state primary.

Many of the best posted men on the political situation in Missouri say that Judge Bird could win in the primary and carry the state by a big majority.

The following officers were elected at the meeting at Quitman: R. H. Smith, president; J. E. Jones, first vice president; E. Malvern, second vice president; J. H. Carden, secretary and treasurer.

Goes to School For the Blind.

Jimmie Patterson, 13 years old, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Patterson of Maryville, has gone to St. Louis to begin his second year at the School for the Blind there. He went by himself. He lost his sight three years ago when a button he was stringing broke and a piece lodged in his eye. The other eye became infected also, and he lost the sight of both.

Licenses to marry were issued in St. Joseph yesterday to Orville Lawrence and Miss Mary Early, both of Graham, and to Bert Taylor and Miss Grace Gray, both of Hopkins.

WAR DEPARTMENT WILL SELL VEHICLES AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Everything From Trucks to Bicycles Included in List of 1,243 Articles—All Need Repairing

The Director of Sales of the War Department announces that the Motor Transport Corps will offer for sale at public auctions, to be held in the immediate future at army camps and storage yards, a total of 1,243 used passenger cars, trucks, ambulances, motorcycles, side cars, and bicycles. These vehicles in their present condition are unserviceable, but a number of them can be made perfectly usable by proper repairing. The War Department has no new or serviceable passenger automobiles for sale at present, and it is not anticipated that it will have any newpassenger cars available for sale to the general public.

RAIN UP TO NOON TOTALS 3 INCHES

SHOWERS THIS MORNING MAKE A THIRD OF THE WHOLE

FINE FOR THE FARMERS

Only Precipitation This Month Bids Fair to Equal All We Had in Both July and August

It may not rain often in Nodaway county, but when it does it puts its heart in the work.

The drizzle that started day before yesterday, the first in this county this month, has been going by fits and starts ever since. This noon it totaled an even 3 inches, according to C. E. Wells, who is now measuring it, and this afternoon there was still more.

Yesterday morning the precipitation was .2 of an inch. In the course of the day and night an additional 1.8 inches fell, making the total this morning an even 2 inches. Another inch came down in the course of the morning.

This one rain bids fair to exceed the total fall for the last two months. July's total was 2.61 inches. The rains of August 25 to 27 made the August total 1.7 inches. The total for the two months thus is 4.31 inches.

And here we are starting on our fourth inch today.

The rain just now is of particular value to farmers, who have been wanting it for some time to soften the ground for the fall plowing. It is expected that the roads will be rough for some time, but even that can't discourage the farmers now.

C. E. Wells, librarian of the State Teachers College, is taking the rainfall measurements for his neighbor, J. R. Brink, official weather observer, who, with Mrs. Brink, has been spending the last week or two in Chicago, Ill., as the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Harold Honnold Bellows, and Mr. Bellows.

A Boost for the Hospital Drive.

Are you going to give something toward raising the fund asked for by the St. Francis hospital? If you do not, you may live to regret not doing so. The hospital is a great thing for the county and has been the means of giving relief to many sufferers. The sisters make nurses that are ideal, their hearts being in the work, and none in need are turned away, the poor as well as the rich being looked after. It's your sacred duty to give this great institution financial help. If not able to give a big amount, give what you can. Whatever you do, give something. You'll sleep better nights by so doing, for your conscience will then be clear.—Pickering Items in the Hopkins Journal.

REV. W. F. BURRIS GETS HIGH HONOR

HE IS NAMED A DELEGATE TO GENERAL CONFERENCE

TO DES MOINES, MAY, 1920

His Associates Are Rev. C. J. English of Brookfield and Rev. Ben F. Jones of Cameron

Tonight's Program.

8:00 p. m.—Rev. C. C. James, D. D. presiding. Centenary addres —"Methodism's World Program" —Rev. Harry Farmer, D. D. New York City.

Friday, Sept. 19.

8: 30 a. m.—Devotional Address—Bishop Quayle. Business session.

10:00 a. m.—Lay Electoral Conference, Presbyterian church.

10:30 a. m.—Conference Discussion.

2:30 p. m.—Anniversary of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society—Mrs. T. A. Corken, presiding—Miss Lydia Trimble, Soo Chow, China.

4:00 p. m.—Lecture—Rev. E. R. Fulkerson, D. D.

8:00 p. m. — Anniversary of the Board of Sunday Schools—Rev. Alva C. Brown, presiding. Address—Rev. L. O. Hartman. Ph. D., Chicago.

The Rev. W. F. Burris, district superintendent of the Maryville district Rev. C. J. English, district superintendent of the Brookfield district, and Rev. Ben F. Jones of the Cameron district, were elected by the Methodist Episcopal conference this morning as delegates to the general conference to be held in Des Moines, Iowa, nex May. Rev. E. L. Robison and President Cameron Harmon of Missour Wesleyan College were chosen as alternates. By being elected to the General Conference, Rev. Mr. Burri and his fellow members had bestowed upon them the highest honor tha can be conferred upon a member by a conference. The three lay delegates to the General Conference will be elected by th conference tomorrow morning.

Bishop Quayle spoke at the morning session with a discussion of democracy. The bishop made a strong plea for the recognition of all life under law. The theme of his address was that "Government by threat such as exemplified by the recent attitude of labor interests, is wrong."

New Ministers Admitted.

The business session was opened by a reading and approving of the minutes of yesterday's session. The following ministers were admitted to full membership and elected to the Deacon Order by vote of the conference: Clyde S. Crowder, E. E. McKeithen, Frank A. Tinney, Claude H. Ragsdale, C. E. Olsen, W. W. Clay, L. M Cooper and J. W. Knight, having passed their examinations, were by vote of the conference advanced to the studies of the fourth year. Byron E. Horn was graduated from the course of study and elected to the Elder Order.

A committee of five, one from each district of the conference, composed of Dr. E. E. Sparks, Dr. W. D. Cater, Dr. Charles Wentworth, Dr. Gilbert S. Cox and Dr. E. B. Thompson, was elected by the conference to make the distribution of the Centenary money for the Missouri Conference.

An executive session of the conference was ordered for 1:15 o'clock this afternoon to consider the request of Rev. G. L. Grangier to withdraw from the conference.

Election of Delegates Next.

Next in the order of the day came the election of delegates to the General Conference. The following tellers from the various districts were appointed to take up the ballots: Rev W. H. Yount, Rev. E. Fry, Rev. C. S Dayhoff, Rev. A. C. Brown, and Rev C. J. Chase. Rev. T. P. Walter was ordered to present them and presen the result to the presiding bishop.

On the first ballot, Dr. W. F. Burris district superintendent of the Maryville district, received 73 out of 98 ballots and was elected. Dr. C. J English, district superintendent of the Brookfield district, received 51 votes of out 98 and was declared elected. Dr. E. L. Robinson, Dr. Ben F. Jones, district superintendent of the Cameron district, Dr. Cameron Harmon, president of the Missouri Wesleyan College, and Dr. Gilbert S. Cox received a splendid vote for membership in the General Conference. A second ballot was ordered for the election of a third delegate to the General Conference at the afternoon session.

Centenary Worker in Address.

Dr. W. L. Wright, secretary of the Centenary Movement for the St. Louis area, addressed the conference. In a broad comprehensive maner and with tremendous emphasis the speaker reviewed the problem confronting the nation. He spoke of the necessity of the heroic devotion of all Methodism to the solution of the problem.

Dr. Harry Farmer of New York City followed with a brief address on the evangelistic value of the Centenary.

Meeting was then adjourned to the afternoon session.

Miss Lydia Trimble of Soo Chow, China, has been announced as the speaker at the aniversary of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society tomorrow afternoon. She will take the place of Miss Marguerite Schroeppel of India, who is unable to attend.

ATTENDANCE OFFICER HOPES TO REDUCE MARYVILLE LIST

Most of 275 Reported Absent Can Be Accounted For, Ed Wallace Thinks —Fewer in the County

Ed Wallace, attendance officer, has on his hands just now the task of finding out just what percentage of the 275 students reported absent in Maryville from the public schools should be reported absent and how many should be stricken off the list because of having moved away or attending other schools. The list he received today is the first he has had from the local schools, and while the number is higher than that reported from the country, Mr. Wallace feels certain that many of the names can be explained off the list. The list from the rural schools is about the same as last week, but most of the names are new, according to Mr. Wallace. No arrests have yet been made.

A Bouquet for Dr. G. S. Cox.

Rev. Gilbert S. Cox, pastor of the First Methodist church of Maryville, is evidently one of the most popular men ever filling the pulpit of that city, a resolution having just been passed by the quarterly conference of his church to be presented at the annual conference now in session chere, asking that he be returned to Maryville for another year. Dr. Cox has been pastor there for seven years and is well liked as a man, as a citizen and as a minister, and under his leadership the church has never been more potent as a factor for good in the community. Dr. Cox is a graduate of Baker University, Baldwin City, Kan., the college Bishop Quayle graduated from, and of which he was president for a number of years. Maryville Methodists seem to be very much awake, having just inaugurated a movement whereby a parsonage will likely be erected in Maryville for the use of the district superintendent. Since John Barleycorn was dethroned Maryville is improving in more ways than one, and will yet be a town the people of the entire county can justly be proud of.—Hopkins Journal.

CONGRESS HONORS GENERAL PERSHING

UNUSUAL TRIBUTE OF JOINT SESSION FOR HIS BENEFIT

ENTHUSIASM HIGH TODAY

Representative Champ Clark of Missouri on Committee to Give Thanks to Commander

Washington, Sept. 18. — Congress laid aside its dignity today to pay enthusiastic tribute to General Pershing. It was the signal and unusual honor of a joint session of the senate and house to welcome Pershing. It was a tribute of congress to the leader of men who fought and carried on to victory the principles which congress declared in April, 1917.

Enthusiasm was high in the capital early today. Crowds began to besiege the capitol to obtain admission to the galleries to witness the unusual spectacle.

Senator Cummins, Speaker Gillett of the house and Representative Champ Clark of Missouri were chosen to express to General Pershing the gratitude of congress and the nation for the victorious direction of the American Expeditionary Forces.

Sergt. David in States.

Sergt. William Roy David, a member of Co. C 26th infantry, 1st division, has arrived in the states, according to word received today by his sister, Mrs. S. T. Gile. Sergt. David paraded with his division in New York last week and in Washington, D. C. yesterday, with General Pershing leading both parades. He had been in overseas service for more than twenty-seven months and made the trip over and back on the same ship with General Pershing. Sergt. David will be sent to Camp Pike, Ark., for discharge.

Bennett Body Arrives.

The body of Chester Bennett, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Virginia Katherine, and Mrs. Bennett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McCoppin, arrived in Maryville this noon. Mr. Bennett's mother, Mrs. Anna Bennett, and his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Bennett of The Dalles, Oregon, are expected tonight, and funeral arrangements will not be completed until their arrival.

Assistant County Clerk Fred Wright is now at work on the last of the county tax books and hopes to have them out by the end of the week.

Value of the Movies Disputed.

Wellesley, Mass., Sept. 18.—Wellesley will not have the movies.

Their ethical value is disputed by Wellesley College, although more than three-quarters of the town would like to beguile away the evening hours at a movie.

The boys of the town have to get rid of their superfluous energies that coud easily be satisfied by watching the movies and are now prowling around raiding the melon patches.

Many of the ethical objectors to the movies have now lost melons from their patches and are wondering whether movies are better than melons.

WOMEN DOING WAR WORK.

During the war women were called into almost every vocation in life and right well did they assume the responsibilities and fill such positions. In many instances, however, their strength has been over-taxed and such ailments as are peculiar to their sex have fastened themselves upon them. Such women should remember there is a tried and true remedy for their troubles in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for more than three generations has been relieving the women of America from some of the worst forms of female ills.

ST. LOUIS PASTOR IN A PLEA FOR THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Dean C. M. Davis Tells Congregation That U. S. Committed Itself to This Policy When It Went to War.

St. Louis, Mo.—Likening the covenant of the League of Nations to the Constitution of the United States, which he said "gave a mode of government by which wrongs could be righted," Dean C. M. Davis, in a sermon at Christ Church Cathedral, urged his hearers to write to both Missouri senators "and urge them to vote for the League and preserve the good name of this nation."

"The question is not whether all its details are ideal, whether it has righted all wrongs, but does it provide for the slow but gradual growth into higher ideals in all relations of the nation?" he declared.

"Read it and see. I believe the answer is yes. Make such reservations or interpretations as you will but none that will cause its rejection.

"The League of Nations is an attempt to draw up a constitution among the nations as, years ago, it was done among the colonies. Those who rail against the League on behalf of, or in defense of, the Constitution, do not see the meaning of the constitution. The constitution did not right the wrongs between the colonies or states—did not take up all the details of their jealousies and rivalries—but it gave a mode of government by which these wrongs could be righted. It was a slow process. All such great movements are. It did not prevent war; we had our great Civil War, which was a necessary step. But without a constitution we could never have gone forward. The Constitution had been amended—is even now in process of amendment, and will doubtless be further amended. But the advance has been constant; the progress slow but sure.

"It is hard to understand the opposition to the League. Some are actuated by self-interest, some driven by ignorance, some ruled by prejudice, some influenced by enemy propaganda, but these do not account for all.

"Take the Irish, for instance. However much we may sympathize with their wrongs it would seem as though their opposition was due to ignorance of their own good, in their impatience in working up public prejudice against England. Yet the Irish hope in is the League. Who can conceive of America going to war for Ireland? But in the League of Nations America would lift her voice and use her whole influence for Ireland.

"When men talk of America for Americans only, and of our going our way in splendid isolation—of keeping out of the world's problems—they are out of date. That question was settled for all time on April 6,1917. We took that step willingly, whole-heartedly, with a high purpose, and it is impossible to go back. The League of Nations is the logical outcome of that step. It is the continuation of the purpose of the war, but the method of persuasion and principle and good will and love, and the setting aside as far as possible of the method of intrigue and hatred and force."

Soldier Will Never See Bride.

Chanderville, Ill., Sept. 18.—Howard Short has taken a bride he never saw and never will see. She is Miss Marjorie Green, of Syracuse, N. Y. Short was given her picture by the girl's mother while he was a soldier in France. He carried it with him constantly, even after he was wounded and lost his eyesight. Regardless of his blindness he returned, met the girl and she married him. While in a convalescent hospital Short learned a trade that enables him to work daily.

GREEN STAMP ON HORSE MEAT; NONE IS GENUINE WITHOUT IT

Department of Agriculture Chooses a Distinctive Mark—Much Expected To Be on the Market Soon.

Dobbin, in his lifetime, may have worn black or white or tan, or even red, but when he passes over the meat block and presents himself to the housewife in the form of steak or roast or anything like that, he will be decked in green. The meat-inspection service of the United States Department of Agriculture, in order to comply with the provision of the law that horse meat shall be conspicuously marked, has decided to stamp the meat with a harmless green ink. The Bureau of Animal Industry stamp is distinctively six-sided and bears the words "Horse Meat."

Horse meat is likely to be on the market in appreciable quantity shortly. A report has been received at the Department of Agriculture from Billings, Mont., that the initial shipment of a lot of about 2,000 range horses has been received for slaughter. A report from New Mexico says that 50,000 range horses in that state should be slaughtered.

An agricultural journal, recently commenting on the slaughter of horses for meat, said that the elimination of undesirable horses not only will save feed for more worthy cattle and sheep but will add hides to the leather supply and increase meat stocks. Department of Agriculture experts say that hides from range horses that have lived in the open should be of excellent quality.

TREATY STRUGGLE NOW IN LAST ACT

SENATE MAY TAKE SEVERAL WEEKS TO CONSIDER IT

IT IS EXPECTED TO PASS

Close Observers in Washington Look for the Defeat of Those Planning Amendments and Reservations

Washington, Sept. 18.—The filing of the majority and minority reports by the foreign relations committee has opened the last and most intense engagement in the senate over the League of Nations. This battle, consisting of a series of engagements, bids fair to last several weeks, and outrival anything that has come before the upper house of congress in many decades.

Close observers—those who check each doubtful senator's qualms and emotions daily—are still strongly of the opinion that the League of Nations as espoused by Woodrow Wilson appears the winner. In this they are assured by the admitted collapse of the attempt to kill the peace treaty without resorting to cover, and the belief that all similar attempts under the guise of amendments and reservations appear equally certain to fail.

Not Enough Time, Says Report.

The Lodge, or majority reports, stresses the point that the committee has had the treaty but six weeks, whereas the peace conference took six months to prepare the treaty. But is is frequently asked, When in all history did it take as long to destroy as to build? Considering that the antagonistic senators were blindly assailing the League of Nations months before they knew its details ,the complaint of inadequate time has not made an impression.

But the minority report takes up the cudgels promptly and points out the commercial unrest the world over that can be directly traced to the delay incident to preparing a majority report that all Senator Lodge's "kill-the - League - some - way" colleagues could agree to, in the following language:

Everything Awaits Treaty.

"The industrial world is in ferment, the financial world in doubt, and commerce halts while this great delay in the peace settlement has been caused by the majority of a committee known to be out of harmony with the majorit yof the senate and the majority of the people. This is government by obstruction as well as by a minority."

Not daring to openly assert that President Wilson had kept anything from them at the famous White House meeting between the chief executive and the members of the foreign relations committee, the report of the majority by implications says that nothing was gained on that occasion, being another excuse for delay in reporting the treaty.

One Argument Falls Flat.

What evidently was considered a "bell-ringer" argument by Senator Lodge and his cohorts already has become a source of amusement. This point was the amount of export business transacted by the United States with Germany since the armistice.

"Between that event and the end of July," announced the Lodge report, "we have exported to Germany goods valued at $11,270,624," thus disproving the administration claim that channels of trade with Germany would be closed until the peace treaty was ratified.

But Senator Hitchcock and his colleagues who prepared the minority report took the trouble to do some figuring, and the general impression is that Senator Lodge wishes he had been equally diligent. Says the minority report:

Majority Claim Is Absurd.

"The claim by the majority of this committee that we have exported over eleven million dollars worth of goods to Germany since the armistice and without peace settlement is no doubt true. To other countries during the same period we exported over five thousand million dollars worth. What was exported to Germany as stated by the majority report was practically nothing. It is only 14 cents worth of American products for each person in Germany in seven months or 2 cents per person per month, yet the majority report boasts of it as evidence of trade revival in spite of treaty delay. The same statesmen gravely assure us that their figures prove that it is a mere delusion to say we cannot trade with Germany till a peace settlement is made. Two cents per month per person is hardly trading with Germany."

New York Sun Asks Questions.

Meanwhile another bit of perplexity has arisen to bother the irreconcilliable elements that Senator Lodge has failed to whip into an agreement to kill the League of Nations, and hence the entire peace treaty. The New York Sun, one of the most violent opponents of the League, recently propounded a series of questions to a "high French government official" in regard to the Lodge amendments and reservations, the replies to three of which are regarded as deeply significant.

One of the questions was, "Would such reservations (those submitted in the majority report) be regarded as equivalent to amendments?" and the answer was, "Yes, without doubt."

Would Have to be Signed Again.

Another was, "Would such reservations have to be accepted by all the signatories before they would be valid as applying to membership in the League of Nations?" the answer being, "Most certainly." Germany, it will be remembered, was one of the signatories.

Still another query was, "Would France object to any of the reservations?" and the answer to this was "That they seemed highly dangerous to the treaty, but as there appeared to be little chance that they would be accepted the question was hardly worth discussing."

Pan-Germanism Up Again.

Meanwhile the president's announcement in the west that pro-Germanism was again raising its head in America is being borne out in the senate of the United States. Senators with large German constituencies have been notable in their attacks on the president and the League and fervid in their protestations of so-called Americanism and nationalism. Frequenters of the capital notice that certain senate galleries are invariably packed when one of these speeches is to be delivered, and that these appeals to patriotism—which Dr. Samuel Johnson several hundred years ago termed in his vigorous style "the last resort of scoundrels"—are greeted with aplause by spectators who leave their seats as soon as the orating senator has taken his seat.

Missouri Senator Is Unhappy.

One of the most unhappy men in the senate just now is Senator Spencer of Missouri, Republican. He threw a monkeywrench into the Lodge-Borah machine some weeks ago by suggesting compromise reservations, and then lost the support of some of the so-called "mild reservationists" by back-tracking at the behest of the majority of the foreign relations committee. Now he does not know whether he is flesh or fowl, and neither side appears to care.

MARK OF "MADE IN U. S. A." TO LEAD WORLD, HE DECLARES

Editor of Musical Paper Tells St. Louisans That Trade of U. S. Profits as Result of the War

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 18.—Foreign countries are going to prefer over others the "Made in U. S. A." mark on the wares they buy, William Geppert, vice president and associate editor of the "Musical Courier of New York," said in a speech delivered at the noonday luncheon of the Advertising Club of St. Louis at Hotel Statler here.

He said that in his own line, the manufaeture of pianos he had noticed this particualrly.

In telling how the piano business in the United States had grown during the war, Geppert said that while previous to the war the production of pianos in the United States was 50 per cent greater than the demand, now that condition was reversed. He said this was largely attributable to the fact that once people of South American countries heard an American piano, they wanted it, regardless of price. England and Germany formerly supplied these countries with pianos.

"It is the same in other lines," Geppert said. "Everything we manufacture is better than what other countries produce. Our dyes are better than German dyes ever were. And now, if I suspect that anything I contemplate buying has German dystuffs in it, I don't buy it."

Geppert told his hearers that talk of business men being crushed between capital and labor was not a circumstance to what politicians were ding to the business man.

"What would it mean if we had 100 clear-minded business men in congress today?" Geppert said. "As a matter of fact, 5 per cent of those there could not quality under that heading. During the war it was the $1-a-year man who saved the situation.

"When it comes to electing a man to congress, look him over first. Let us have business men run the government, for it is the biggest business in the world."

Doing Your Best With What You Have !

"Your paper," said a man with a little place over back of town, "ain't for me and my kind—the fellows with small farms. It's all for the big, successful men."

"That," I replied, "is where you're wrong.

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

is just as much for the small farmer as it is for the big man—it's for every man who is doing the best he can with what he has. It believes in the small farmer; it looks upon him as the man who did most to keep the fighting world from starving.

"And it is trying in every possible way to help the small farmer to make a success—to do the best he can with what he has." Just to emphasize this very point, THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is planning a new series of articles, to begin some time this fall, about small farmers in all parts of the country who are fighting the battle and doing the best they can with what they have. It will be a bully series, written by some of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN'S best men, and no farmer, however small his place, can afford to miss it. One Dollar, invested in a year's subscription, may make the difference between success and failure. Delay doesn't pay!

Where Men are Falling in Love With the New Models

Society Brand Clothes

CHOOSING A SUIT HERE is a good bit like deciding which one of a crowd of pretty girls is the prettiest. But instinct comes to a fellow's aid in choosing a girl, so it will decide for you the style and fabric and color closest to your heartbeat. We wish we could say something or do something to bring all the men in town in here to take a look at our clothes-line (pardon the pun). But it's really some clothesline and holds interest to every man in this burg who likes to dress best at least cost. It is an exhibition of the good looks and good materials and good tailoring that go into

Society Brand Clothes

No use going into details here—too much like trying to describe each twinkling star in a constellation. We won't talk styles or fabrics except to say they're here in Society Brand exclusiveness and abundance. We won't mention prices; they mean nothing until you have used your eyes, hands and gray matter in realizing the fineness of materials and workmanship. We won't talk anything but "Come and see! Come and feel! Come and think!". We've facts to lay in front of you, more interesting than fiction, because they carry a human-interest appeal to your pocketbook. When these facts of plain-to-be-seen superiority of Society Brand unfold themselves to you, we'll add your name to our list of customer-friends—prices will not be an objection.

These pictures give you a pretty fair clue to the style-variety we're going to stack up to gladden your eyes when you come in. They are a clue only. Pictures can't show materials, colorings or workmanship—can't really show the styles as they will demonstrate themselves on your body in front of a mirror. Squeeze an hour out of some day right soon and come in for a look. If you don't prove to yourself that you can dress best at least cost here, we don't want your money.

Customs of the Ends of the Earth Related by a Conference Speaker

Dr. E. R. Fulkerson in his first 4 o'clock lecture yesterday at the M. E. conference made a very favorable impression. His talk was particularly interesting because of the rich store of experience which the speaker had to draw from.

Dr.Fulkerson has traveled over most of the known world as a student of the social conditions of the various countries and later as an evangelist.

In the yesterday afternoon lecture he described what the convictions of people, followers of other religions than the Christian led them to do.

One example was the sights seen on a visit to the temple of a great viceroy in China. There he saw on the walls records of the beheading of 9940 Chinese. In conversion with the great viceroy he learned that this killing had been done under the direction and orders of the latter in a period extending over less than eighteen years. Furthermore the viceroy told him that his greatest ambition in life was to have the great gods spare his life until he would have ordered the death of 10,000 Chinese. And the great Chinese church official was sincere in his conviction.

Then Dr. Fulkerson changed the scene to India. He told of standing one day one the banks of the sacred Ganges river and watching a mother throw her child in the river to drown. Then she turned her face toward the great temple standing near by and reverently paid honors to the heathen gods.

"That woman," the speaker said, "had a great conviction of her religious sympathies, else she would not have given her own flesh and blood as a sacrifice to her gods."

A scene in Egypt was then described. This time a great doctor of philosophy, a graduate of the greatest university of Egypt, was seen to be measuring his length on the ground, moping forward to Mecca, the sacred city of Mohammed. He was another follower of a religion with a great principle.

The concluding scene described by Dr. Fulkerson was in China, in a Christian mission church there. A great meeting was in progress. At the close of the meeting converts were coming forward and being received in to the church. A coolie woman of the lowest class came forward, carrying in her arms a small child, and knelt down. Then a great Chinese scholar and graduate of the China's greatest university came forward and knelt on one side of the collie woman. He was followed shortly after by a rich silk merchant, who knelt on the other side of the coolie woman.

Truly the spirit of God had descended upon these three Chinese, representing the three principle classes of China.

"This is the spirit upon which the solution of the present unrest of the world depends," stated Dr. Fulkerson in concluding his address.

MUST BETTER MEN

have to do it as a whole. All solidarity is now world solidarity. We must rebuild all, not just America.

"When a Missouri mule helps the Italians in the war in the Alps and a rat from China can give disease to the citizens of the United States, the interdependence of the world is proved. To keep the rats down, we must kill them all, including those in China.

"If we don't look out, we will all be world men and women before long. This is a new day; some people prefer to call it a new 'epoch,' but they mean the same thing."

We mustn't brag about how good we are. The bishop illustrated this by referring to Boston and the riots there. We should be ashamed of ourselves, he said, if the policemen are all that keeps us within bounds. "We talk of the jungle," he said. "What is the name of the jungle? Boston?"

Is Against Police Unions.

Unions of public servants, such as the police, must not be allowed, the bishop held.

"We must rebuild the world out of humanity, such as it is. The race is desperately old. Here we are—wiser men, not better. We know what a republic is, but nobody knows what a democracy is. Bolshevism is democracy drunk.

"Each man must have his place in the rebuilt world. We must work through individuals. We can't cleanse all at once. It is a slow way, but it is a sure way, and it is God's way.

"Anything that takes away the individual rights of a man's soul is wrong. Socialism thinks of men, not of man. We must improve the race one at a time. The mourners' bench is still the greatest national asset."

Must Remember Our Duties.

Continuing, the speaker asked that each man remember what he owes the government as well as what the government owes him. Taxation should touch all equally. Man must have his right to enjoy, to employ and to suffer.

The bishop also paid a tribute to national personalities. He praised the British traits, especially that of fighting best when backed against a wall. The French tenacity was also praised. The greatest words of the war, he held, were, "They shall not pass!" uttered by General Petain at Verdun.

The bishop also would have presented to Germany the whole bill for the war. Payment is another matter, he said. "My creditors always send me complete bills," he explained, "no matter how much of them I am able to pay." The bishop also thought the armistice was signed a few weeks too soon. He would have crushed Germany permanently.

Has Word on Irish Question.

The Irish question also came in for a mention. Several amens came from the crowd when the bishop made the usual defense of the sober and industrious Protestant minority as against the supposedly tyrannical intentions of the "priest-ridden, fickle and drunken" Roman Catholic majority.

The bishop denounced the Shantung agreement, disapproved of our present government by threat" of the labor unions and the president and congress, and expressed a conviction that the negroes soon would be equal in all rights with the whites, and that "jim crow" cars would be abolished.

"THAT WELL DRESSED LOOK," PHOTO PLAY, TO BE HERE.

NEXT MONDAY THE DATE

Some of Creations To Be Exhibited Are Yet To Be Placed on Sale in New York Shops.

A motion picture of particular interest to the women in this city will be shown here Monday night, September 22 at the Empire Theatre. It is the first motion picture film devoted exclusively to the exploitation of fashions, and is to be shown here through the courtesy of the Woolte.

studios, for whom it was produced by Universal, under the personal supervision of Harry Levey, general manager of the educational department.

The latest creations—and, in fact, creations yet to be placed on sale in the New York shops—will be shown draped upon the prettiest and cleverest models it was possible to obtain. These young women were selected as types for the display of the particular garments they wear. The result of this, and of the painstaking direction given the production, has resulted in one of the most beautiful as well as entertaining photoplays yet released with an educational theme.

Lavish Settings For Picture.

Lavish settings, choice garments, all of which are those which dictates of fashion have pointed out as the correct thing for the fall and winter seasons, and superb photography make this production stand alone in its own field. Its object is described in its title, which is, "That Well Dressed Look."

This film is the second edition of a similar play which was released in the early spring. This first edition was made the object of a nation-wide campaign, which was so successful that the second edition was planned. In many cities exhibitions were staged in conjunction with the film, in which live models took part and which were the objects of much comment by both public and the press. Several joint exhibitions of this type have been arranged.

Experts Called in to Help.

It was with a desire to present to the stylish women of America a forecast of what the coming seasons were to bring that this photoplay was conceived. Men and women in close touch with the fashion world, whose representatives are continually visiting the style centers of the world, and who are in close touch with all gatherings of creators of fashions, were called upon to assist in the preparation of "That Well Dressed Look," so that when it is introduced in the theatres of the nation it will lack nothing in the way of originality and preciseness.

Providing clothing for the stylish woman is no small job, and in filming garments which are criterions in their own fields, the utmost care must be exercised to exploit only those styles which are typical of the times, and which have met with popular favor with the leaders in this field. Pains were taken that only garments meeting these requirements were used in this production.

These facts, coupled with the detail of almost perfect direction and the use of the most clever models to be found, warrant the merit of this production. In the eyes of the women of America, at least, there is no doubt but that this second edition of fashions will meet with favor. Clothes are interesting to all women and most men. The story woven into this little playlet will find a responsive thrill in the heart of any audience, no matter where assembled.

"That Well Dressed Look," second edition, is now being booked in all of the important theatres of the country.

Missouri, Poultry Queen of Union, Produces $101,844,782 in One Year

Jefferson City, Sept. 18.—Missouri, the Poultry Queen of the Union, added further laurels to her "lay of the hen" in 1917 when the total value of all farm yard products, 114 counties considered, reached the enormous sum of $101,844,782, anonunces advance information from the 1919 Missouri Red Book, given publicity today by Commissioner William E. Lewis. Included in this vast worth are all chickens, pullets, roosters, capons, turkeys, geese, ducks, squabs, pigeons and guinea fowls and eggs and feathers marketed that year by Missouri farmers and poultry raisers. While there were substantial gains in the number of pounds of poultry and dozens of eggs hauled or sent to consuming points, a heavy increase in unit value of the commodities considered, due chiefly to war conditions, 1917 over 1916, brought about the high total value.

In comparison the 1916 farmyard products marketed from Missouri's 114 counties, had a worth of $72,399,310; the output of 1915, $63,486,618; the output of 1914, $58,708,484; and that of 1913, $53,225,113.

With Missouri's surplus farmyard products, 1917, worth a total of $101,844,782, it will be interesting to know that over sixty per cent came from sales that year of 198,590,746 dozens of eggs, which, at an average of 21 cents, had a farm worth of $61,563,131. To more clearly indicate what the egg industry meant to Missouri poultry raisers this sum is nearly $10,000,000 more than all of the state's poultry products sold for in 1914, regardless of the fact that the sum realized that year totaled $53,225,115, and of which $29,026,584 came from the sale of 193,510,560 dozens of eggs at an average farm worth of 15 cents a dozen.

According to the calculations of Supervisor of Statistics A. T. Edmonston, Missouri farmers and poultry raisers in 1917, through marketing 240,350,522 pounds of live and dressed poultry, gathered in $40,161,100. The quantity of live poultry sold was 172,333,017 pounds, which, at 16.2 cents a pound, had a total farm worth of $27,917,949. The 66,017,505 pounds of dressed poultry sold had a total farm worth of $12,243,151.

For a total of 1,174,181 pounds of feathers which were marketed by poultry farmers and poultry packers, at an average of 26 cents a pound, the total sum realized was $320,551.

The portion of farmyard products sold directly to consumers includes vast amounts of poultry and eggs hauled in vehicles by farmers into cities such as St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Moberly, Mexico, Sedalia, Carthage, Cape Girardeu, Webb City, Springfield, Louisiana, Hannibal, Jefferson City and other cities, and into many towns and villages and retailed there from wagons or else sold outright to grocers, butchers and other similar retailers or to bakers, restaurants, hotels and cafes.

Good Fall Shoes at Reasonable Prices

The season for fall footwear is here, and we believe we can give you values that will make your dollar buy more real shoe service than usual. The reason is that we are selling shoes bought a few months ago for the price based on that cost. All of these shoes have advanced, until some of them would now cost us as much as we are selling them at and some of them would cost more.

This means exactly what it says:—These prices are wholesale or less than wholesale prices. And the shoes are qualities well worth the price. They are of best quality stock and workmanship and besides their real value as good substantial shoes, they have every attribute of style demanded by the dictates of good shoe fashion for this fall and winter. When it becomes necessary for us to replace a pair of these shoes in our stock we will have to raise the price, but while the present stock lasts we will sell them at the old prices. Here are a few of the best selling numbers:

Ladies dark brown light weight calf, medium military heel, a special value at $9.50

Ladies dark brown calf, high top, French heel, Goodyear welt, an excellent street shoe $10.00

Ladies brown kid, Goodyear welt, French heel. A fine dress shoe $10.00

Miss Della Nash Injured.

Misses Mossie Walters and Della Nash, teachers at the Maxwell school and John Angsten, who lives on the Amazonia road, were injured at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when a motor car in which they were driving was struck by a southbound Union line street car, at St. Joseph avenue and Logan street. Miss Nash suffered a broken rib. The two women were taken into the home of Mrs. E. L. Heyde, 3302 St. Joseph avenue, where they received medical attention. Their injuries, or Angsten's are not critical. Angsten was bringing the teachers to the city and for some cause his car "died" on the street car track.—St. Joseph News-Press.

Miss Nash whose home is in Hopkins, is well known in Maryville, having been a member of the 1917 graduating class of the State Teachers College.

New England Likes Army Food.

Boston, Sept. 18.—More than 1,000 orders for army food supplies have been received at the quartermaster depot, South Boston, from postmasters throughout New England during the past week ,the value of which amounts to $300,000. According to Major Swanton of the quartermaster department, the allotments made to postoffices are fast being used up. Orders are being rapidly filled and shipped in carload lots to the various cities, he said. How much longer the present supply will hold out the major was unable to predict. It is expected another allotment wil be ready shortly, possibly before the present one is exhausted.

McEnaney calmly walked in on his friends here several days ago. While he admits that he does not have as many lives as a cat, he says he has at least three and that he is going to make the best of the third. The Altoona man became a soldier in the air service and after several months training on Kelly Field, Texas, he went overseas with the 158th Aero Squadron, sailing on the ill-fated Tuscania, which was sunk in Irish waters on February 5, 1918. McEnaney jumped into the water just before the big ship finally settled and was afloat four hours before being rescued by an English tug. He cannot explain how he happened to be reported "killed" in the Argonne drive.

There are just as many Mormons in Chicago as Salt Lake City, but their wives don't know it.

Money will "Cut Some Ice" in buying shoes right now. You'll have to live to be a pretty old man before you'll ever again have the pleasure of buying shoes at the prices we have marked on all our shoes.

STAND THE ABUSE

You men who work: Our shoes stand all the abuse you can give them.

They are made strong , of tough but yielding material, lending as much comfort as possible. They are stitched so that the seams won't rip, and are reinforced where the strain and wear are greatest.

Decidedly the best values in work shoes to be had anywhere.

Intoxication Hard to Define.

Akron, O., Sept. 18.—Frank J. Rockwell is one of Akron's leading attorneys and is an expert cross-examiner, but a witness he was examining caused him to "pass the buck" to congress.

"Was this man intoxicated?" asked Rockwell.

"I hardly know," was the witness' reply. "If you will tell me just what a state of intoxication is I will try to answer your question," said the witness.

"Ah, young man," said Rockwell, "you have asked a hard question. To define what constitutes intoxication has engaged the attention of men of wisdom for ages, and today it is a much-mooted and discussed question. No less an august body than the congress of the United States is now engaged in an effort to solve the problem of what constitutes intoxication, and with all the United States senators and representatives to handle the problem, why pick on me? We will pass on to another subject."

Exclusive London Hangs Out Wash.

London, Sept. 18. — The exclusive residential district of London swelldom, Park Lane, which is comparable to Riverside Drive, New York, or upper Sheridan Drive, Chicago, has astonished blaze British observers. Park Lane has hung out its washing! Yes, this lane of wealth and social exclusiveness is decorated here and there, behind high walls, with "undies", "nighties" and other unmentionables frollicking in the breeze. The reason is high laundry prices. If the bill is $10 the government calmly adds another $5 in taxes. So exclusive residents of Park Lane and other Mayfair places are openly flaunting their leases which strictly provide against anything so democratic as home-done washing. Leases were so drawn to protect the tender susceptibilities of the elite. But economy is the antidote. If shocs keep going up some of the Mayfair palaces may be exploiting barefoot butlers.

What One Boy Did in a Pig Club

Lowell Dudley, of Hamilton, Mo., says: "I entered the sow and litter contest of the Hamilton Pig Club for several reasons. I am interested in farm work, particularly the growing of fine stock. Hogs are my favorite animal. I have also the American characteristic of desiring money, and thought by entering the contest to acquire some of it."

STATEMENT.

Bought sow for	$ 63.00	Sold sow and pigs	$486.00
Feed cost	125.00	Premiums	26.00
Fasture cost	4.60
Labor, 10c per hr.	9.45		$512.00
		Less cost	202.25
Total cost	$202.25	Net profit	$309.75

This is the kind of results the Farmers Trust Co., of Maryville expects the members of their calf and pig clubs to get.

Any boy or girl in the county between the ages of 9 and 19 may belong to the FARMERS TRUST CO'S CALF AND PIG CLUBS.

Shorthorn calves will be bought by members of the Calf Club and the contest will cover a period of three years, including feeding and raising a heifer calf and her increase, and suitable prizes will be offered for the best results besides the profits made when the calves are sold. But member may retire at end of any year.

Pure bred Poland-China gilts will be bought by the club in co-operation with the Farmers Trust Co., and sold to the individual members after they have first been put in the very best of condition by experienced hog raisers. Each member of the pig club will take one sow and keep a record of the feeding of the sow and litter, and write a story about "How I fed and cared for my pigs."

The Farmers Trust Company will loan the money to the boys and girls who wish it at 6 per cent interest. We are doing this to encourage more and better cattle and hog raising in community by the boys and girls who will soon be the men and women of the county and to encourage thrift and teach financial management in connection with stock raising. In this we are co-operating with the State Agricultural School, who will direct the work and give instruction in care and feeding of animals, balancing of rations, etc.

Application blanks and full information may be secured by any boy or girl on application to

BANKING BILL TO HELP U. S. TRADE

SENATE PASSES MEASURE TO STEADY FOREIGN FINANCE

WAS A DEMOCRATIC IDEA

Failed of Passage Last Time and Had to be Fathered by Republican Now to Get Any Results

Washington, Sept. 18.—President Wilson has drawn attention in many of his addresses in the west to the importance of the United States ratifying the peace treaty and League of Nations in order that the business of the world may be resumed at once, and that America may participate to the immense extent the possibilities warrant. As indicative of its belief in the approval of the treaty and as preparation for America's part in the battle for world trade conquest, the senate has passed a foreign finance banking bill and it is expected the House of Representatives will take similar action soon. Incidentally, this measure is only made possible by the strength of the Federal Reserve Banking Act, one of the greatest legislative triumphs of the Wilson administration.

This bill introduced by Senator Edge of New Jersey is a development of the Owen foreign finance bill of the last session, one of the administration measures that failed of passage. Senator Owen, one of the architects of the Federal Reserve Act, suggested to Senator Edge that a Republican had better handle the measure in this congress, hence it now bears the Jersey senator's name.

Applies to Private Banking.

Though starting out on the Owen principles favoring a foreign banking corporation with American governmental participation, the Edge bill has become an act practically limited to private banking activities under the Federal Reserve Board supervision. As such it had the approval of prominent banking interests, and, with some amendments, was okehed by the Federal Reserve Board.

The chaotic conditions brought on by the world war are accentuated at the present time by financial and industrial uncertainties, due in large measure to doubt as to the fate of the League of Nations and stability of international finance. American manufacturers and merchants are chary of seeking foreign business because of the tremendous balance of trade in favor of the United States in the last three years, now amounting to some twelve billion dollars. With the peace treaty signed and order brought out of the present chaos, they are more than desirous of assisting in the rehabilitation of Europe.

Bill Not Paid in Full.

To offset this tremendous balance the United States has taken over gold and securities, but the bill, of course, is far from being paid in full. The present time is an emergency period for Europe and its needes are of the drasti cnature. If America does not give Europe the credit it asks because it cannot realize on the bills of exchange, there wil be little or no trade it i spointed out. The American exporter is hesitating because he feels that he ha salready gone the limit in extending his international credits, and fears to risk more without specific assistance from this side of the water.

It is believed the foreign finance bill will assist in filling this want. Its proponents point out that it will facilitate international trade by furnishing a means of marketing the bills of exchange. This will enable the smaller business man to have the same facilities in international trade now enjoyed by larger firms with close connection with big banking firms that specialize in business across the seas.

Long Credits in South America.

In the very early days of the world war some Americans saw the opportunity to seize the bulk of the German trade in South America. They found that inadequate banking facilities constituted the greatest barrier. South Americans were accustomed to long credits from England and Germany and demanded the same from America. Ninety day bills were unknown there, and six months was the usual minimum.

The National City Bank of New York was the first to establish banking branches in leading South American cities, and it was followed by other concerns from New York and Chicago until now American exporters have laid the foundation for a large and permanent business with this nation's neighbors to the south.

With similar private banking corporations engaging in like work in the European and Asiatic fields under the supervision of the Federal Reserve Board, it is felt by exporters and financiers that the ground work for a vastly increased American foreign trade wil lhave been laid and that the reaping of the harvest wil lbegin to materialize soon after the peace treaty receives sanction of the senate.

MOVIE MAN WILL SNAP STATE EDITORS IN ANNUAL SESSION

J. F. Hull of Maryville on Program of Missouri Press Association at Springfield Sept. 25 to 27.

Springfield, Mo., Sept. 18.—Unusual interest is attached to the fifty-third annual meeting of the Missouri Press Association, which will be held here September 25-27, because of the seriousness of the print paper situation and the high cost of printing materials.

These features of newspaper making will be discussed by the editors and business office representatives during the three day session.

The Pathe Weekly has arranged for a representative to be present to film the editors and their friends at the big meeting.

Governor Frederick D. Gardner is scheduled for an address at the annual banquet Friday evening, September 26

Among the other speakers are:

Dean Walter Williams of Columbia; William Y. Morgan, Hutchison, Kan., editor and noted "Y" worker with the 35th Division; Lee Shippy, Kansas City Star, Kansas City, Mo.; E. Lensing Ray, Globe-Democrat, St. Louis, Mo.; George Jones, St. Louis Post-Dispatch; J. F. Hull, Maryville; C. M. Harrison, Sedalia; Geoge W. Eads, St. Louis; H. S. Jewell, Springfield, and William Southern, Independence.

When You Wear Your Fall Silks Think of the Japanese Women

Fall silks blossoming through the land now bring to mind that half a million Japanese women slave continuously for three weeks twice a year waiting upon and feeding the greedy silk worm. Where American women keep hens to meet the high cost of living, Japanese women eke out their family incomes by cultivating silk worms. Japan supplies about 60 per cent of the silk used in America, the annual exports to this country in the year before the great war amounting to $63,000,000. Ninety per cent of the labor involved was performed by women, according to statistics compiled for the nation-wide campaign of the Episcopal church.

The work is exceedingly hard while it lasts. The women and girls chop up mulberry leaves which they feed to the silk worms at regular intervals day and night. During the last three or four days of the three weeks feeding period the silk worms eat ravenously and continuously. The women have to devote themselves exclusively to feeding the worms, becoming veritable slaves to the magic creatures which later spin the silk into cocoons about themselves.

Experiment has shown that the rearing of silk worms can be best and most profitably done only on a small scale where each worm can be given careful, almost individual attention. This makes it necessary to rear them in farmers' homes rathery than in large establishments.

The farmers' wives in Japan have anything but an easy time of it. Many women living on farms in the United States have a hard enough time of it, but they live like queens in comparison to hundreds of thousands of rural Japanese women. The Christian missions in Japan have not been able to minister an any large scale to the women of the farming classes in Japan, but even there a foothold has been gained and the work among them will be expanded through the nation-wide campaign of the Episcopal church, now in progress in the United States, for that is a campaign in spiritual education to raise men and funds to increase that church's activities at home and abroad.

After the cocoons have been formed the silk must be reeled off as quickly as possible before the sleeping worm awakens and siarts to gnaw its way out, destroying the silk it has spun. Again the women must work under pressure for time, leting other things wait.

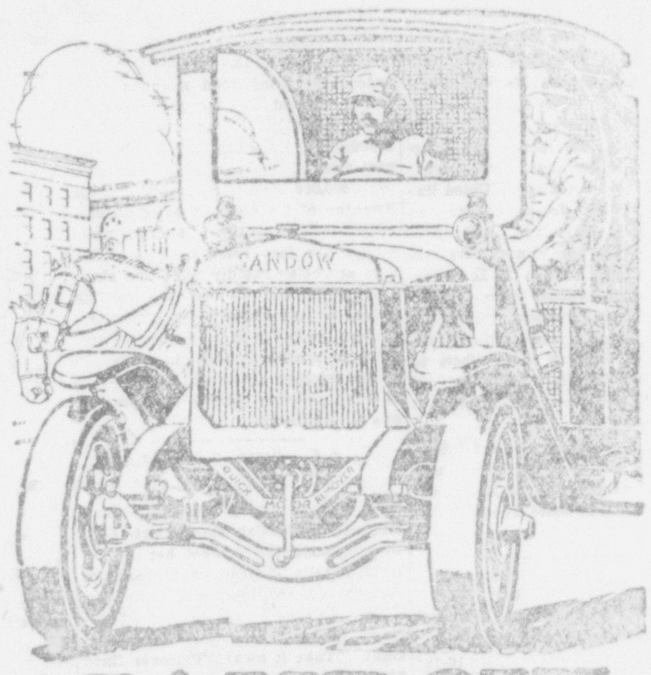
CAN YOU FARM ON $500.00 LAND?

WE ALL KNOW that land will sell in this part of the country around $500 per acre. This means that an ordinary crop raised in the manner employed fifty years ago would not bring in enough money to pay the interest on the investment.

But modern methods of production will increase crops and decrease costs until it will be possible to make money on $500 land. IT'S GOT TO BE POSSIBLE. How are you going to it?

POWER FARMING—Is the solution of at least part of the problem. Making it possible for one man to do the work of three or four men and teams, and giving him time to farm more intensively.

TRUCK HAULING will be one of the most important branches of power farming, because it will eliminate expensive horse and man power. It will not only be possible for one man to haul as much as three or four men and teams but it will be possibe to reach the best markets and reach them when they demand produce and when the price is consequently high.



SANDOW TRUCKS

It will take good BUSINESS FARMING to make money on such a large investment and part of the business will consist of the ability to employ those machines that do the best work. The man who buys a truck that will only take care of PART of his work will not be able to save much because he will have to have his teams and feed them to handle the rest of it, but the man who looks forward far enough to see what a truck WILL HAVE TO DO for him will get one that will do ALL his work and he will immedately add to his production and cut his costs.

The SANDOW Truck

is built for the man who will have heavy, hard work to do and who knows that a light, cheap truck won't do it. In every specification of the Sandow there is extra strength and extra wear. It will outlast two light trucks. It is made in every size required for farming, but each size has wonderful strength. It is equipped with everything necessary to a truck to handle farm work, and then it has several exclusive features that place it ahead of other trucks.

All of these features and complete specifications of the various sizes may be seen, and you can see a truck in regular use on all kinds of work if you will come to our office at the Empire Theatre Building

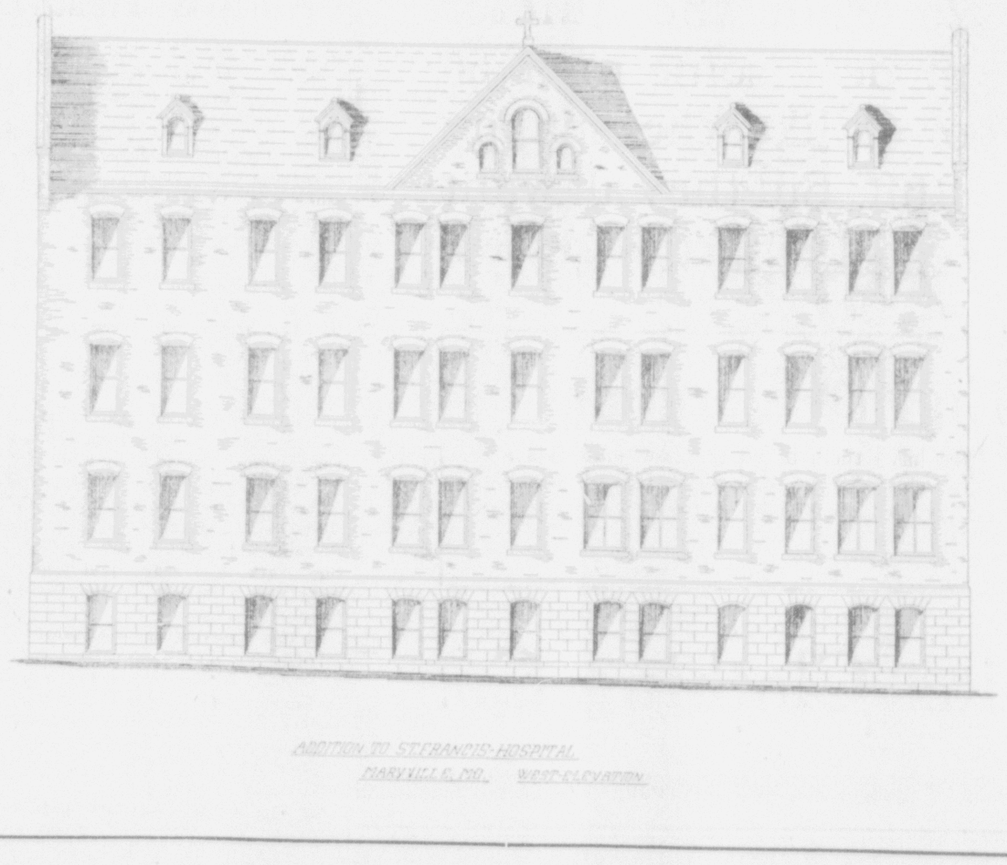
Saint Francis Hospital

Needs Your Help

The demand for room in this tremendously important hospital is constantly greater than the institution can supply. It may be you or some one of your loved ones will need the modern conveniences and the tender care for which this great institution is famous and if such should be the case you will be doubly thankful if you have given of your plenty to increase its efficiency and its facilities.

The New Addition Will Cost $100,000



ADDITION TO ST. FRANCIS HOSPITAL
MARYVILLE, MO. WEST ELEVATION

Nodaway County Is Asked to Donate Half

The addition which the Sisters are expecting to build will double the capacity of the hospital, will add one more operating room, will provide a commodious sunroom for convalescent patients and will be fireproof.

The Campaign Starts Monday, September 22, and Continues for One Week

Every citizen of Nodaway County will be given an opportunity to subscribe and every citizen should consider it a privilege to help in such a worthy cause. The Sisters in charge of the hospital devote their lives to this work without pay. You are asked only for some of your money to help carry on the great work.

The hospital makes moderate charges for those who are able to pay, but the poorest man or woman in Nodaway County is given the same untiring service without pay as is given to the richest person. The hospital records show that for the last fourteen years an average of fifty-one patients have been cared for in this institution absolutely free of charge.

MISSOURI OFFICIALS LEARN VACATION JUNKETS ARE OFF

Appropriation Bills From Last Legislature Filed in Most Cases Special Trips at State's Expense.

Jefferson City, Mo., Sept. 18.—The time-honored custom of Missouri state officials and their cheif assistants to enjoy summer vacation junkets on "official business" in distant states, has received a hard jolt this year. The only official who apparently avoided in his appropriation bill a special prohibition against traveling at state expense outside of the state was the bank cashier. All the others have discovered that the appropriation bills passed by the last legislature forbade such expenditures.

The latest discovery was made by State Oil Inspector Omar Gray, political lieutenant of Governor Gardner.

Gray a few days ago inquired of the state auditor's office if he would not be permitted to attend a convention of state inspectors in Minnesota, at state expense. He was referred to a clause he had not seen in the oil inspecting appropriation bill forbidding it. The ban on these trips was placed in the bills by the last legislature on suggestion of State Auditor Hackmann.

Expense bills for the recent trip of the Capitol Decorations Committee to New York and Boston were held up temporarily by Hackmann a few days ago until a ruling could be obtained from the attorney general. Arthur Kocian, St. Louis art dealer, is secretary of the commission, and Prof. John Pickard, head of the State University Art Department, is chairman. Mrs. W. R. Painter was the third member. The expense bills, amounting to $638.87, finally were paid.

WOMAN TENNIS STAR MARRIES; PRACTICES AS SHE PREACHED

Miss Molla Bjurstedt, Now Mrs. F. I. Mallory, Always Advised Wedding With an Older Man

New York, Sept. 18. — Miss Molla Bjurstedt, former champion of American wimen tennis players—Miss Bjurestdt that was and Mrs. Franklin I. Mallory that is—has practiced what she has preached, namely, that it is a mistake for women to marry men much younger than themselves. She herself is twenty-seven, and the man to whom she has just been married is forty-two.

Said the bride in an interview not long ago:

"The trouble with women tennis players is that it keeps them dangerously young. Consequently they seek the companionship of the young, which to my mind is a dangerous mistake. There is nothing more pathetic than to see a woman close to the half-century mark in a sentimental attachment with a man in his twenties or thirties."

In this interview she also said:

"Love is life to women. But there are several kinds of love, and each has its proper time and place. When I am forty I hope to have other interests in life than playing tennis and flirting."

"Does the one inevitably lead to the other?" she was asked.

"In this country everything leads to sentiment," was the reply. "It may be because there are so many men. In England and in Norway there are more girls than men. In consequence girls learn from babyhood to depend on themselves for their amusements.

"If men and marriage come their way, well and good. If not, they find interest in athletics and work. They cheerfully make other women's children objects for their own maternal love. They substitute friendship for love and keep their bodies young and their minds healthy by exercise in the open, especially by walking tours."

Mrs. Mallory was a trained nurse in Norway and was studying to become a physician when her successes on the tennis court induced her to come to America and interrupted her medical studies. Mr. Mallory is a Manhattan broker.

H. C. L. to Boost Fines, Too.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Everything is advancing in price, and with the high cost of living affecting everybody it is natural to suppose that every class of society will squirm until relief comes. Now comes the justices of the peace and constables at the meeting of the Cook county association of justices of the peace and constables, asking for an increase in fines. John F. Boyer, president of the association, says the question hinges on the proposition of increasing fines in proportion to the costs of "other necessities." Justice Samuel Harrison, of Evanston, pointed out that "if a man was fined $5 two years ago a similar offense this year should cost him $10," and Justice D. M. Mickey, who may be an insurgent when the issue is raised on the convention floor, contends that "fees for justices should be subsatntially boosted, but that fines should not be increased."

Arrests Him With a Smile.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Never again will Philip Summers, guardian of the bridge at One Hundred and Sixth street, South Chicago, respond to the wiles, smiles and styles of the vamp. A few months ago Mrs. Kate Summers sued for a divorce and was awarded temporary alimony, but she was unable to obtain service on Summers, who avoided the officers. Then Dixie Lane volunteered her services She was good to look upon, and Summers "looked" while Miss Lane served the court summons on him.

Maybe It Served Him Right.

Kansas City, Sept. 18.—A. McRea, seventy years old, of Herrington, Kan., heard that Kansas City was the one oasis on the vast prohibition desert. This morning he stepped from an incoming train and with an empty suitcase walked up main street in search of whiskey. He met two obliging citizens who agreed to get him a case of the desert beverage. McRea gave the men $60 and the empty suitcase, which they were to fill with "bottled in bond Three hours later McRea was stall marooned in the desert of prohibition as far the two newly made friends were concerned. He reported the matter to the police, who are still searching for the obliging ones."

Pauline is a Popular Hen.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 18.—Pauline has not only been a popular heroine on the stage and in the movies, but is "some chicken." She is now queen of the feathered flock. Offers of $2,000 for her have been refused by her owners because of her egg-laying record, among other things. She laid 141 eggs in six months including the severe winter months last year, it is claimed. Her record for the entire year was 285 eggs.

Hair Tonic Popular Since July.

Burlington, Vt., Sept. 18.—Hair tonic has had such a boom in this state since the prohibition law went into effect that Federal officials say an immediate curb will be put on the big sales of this liquid, which has been found to contain a large percentage of alcohol. United States District Attorney V. A. Bullard said today that big stocks of the tonic has been acquired by Vermonters who had found it had the most "kick" of any booze substitue that could be purchased.
